EDWARDS BIBLE RECORDS AND OTHER DATA

There is a Maxwell History and Genealogy off the Press of C. E. Pauley & Co., Indianapolis, Indiana. I saw a copy owned by Rev. P. B. Logan of R. R. 1, Mars, Pa. On pages 541 - 543 of that History is a record of the Robert Edwards Family naming the following children:

- | | |
|--------------|--------------------|
| 1. William | 4. Sally |
| 2. Elizabeth | 5. Starling |
| 3. Polly | 6. David |

The record gives only detailed account of the William and David Lines. Fortunately, I can give a record of Starling's son, William. I have a copy of a letter written by Selina Edwards to her son William. The descendants have a record in an old pocket book with a record part in it. It reads:

"Selina Cobb born May 15, 1775

Starling Edwards born Feb. 6, 1768.

Starling Edwards married Selina Cobb Mar. 26, 1793.

Marget Edwards born May 12, 1794

David Edwards born Mar. 16, 1796

Betsey Edwards born Mar. 10, 1798

William Edwards born June 16, 1811."

Goodspeed's History of Lawrence, Orange, and Washington' Counties says: "William Edwards was born in Ashe County, North Carolina June 16, 1811 and was the ninth of 12 children born to Starling and Selina (Cobb) Edwards." He came to Indiana in 1827; married Elizabeth Fish July 18, 1833. They had 12 children.

The obituary of Elizabeth Fish Edwards states among other things: "Her maiden name was Elizabeth Fish. She was the daughter of William and Sarah J. Fish natives of N. Carolina who emigrated to Indiana in 1816." Sarah was Sarah Kale before her marriage to William Fish.

Elizabeth Fish Edwards had a Bible Printed by the American Bible Society of New York, 1850. The Bible is now owned by her granddaughter, Mrs. Flora E. Ikord, 3422 N. W. 14th Terrace Miami 35, Florida. Its records read:

Introduction

The purpose of this study is to investigate the effects of various factors on the growth of a certain plant species. The study was conducted over a period of six months, during which time the plants were grown under different conditions of light, water, and soil.

The first factor investigated was the amount of light received by the plants. It was found that plants grown in full sunlight grew significantly faster than those grown in partial shade.

The second factor investigated was the amount of water received by the plants. It was found that plants grown with a regular watering schedule grew faster than those that were watered less frequently.

The third factor investigated was the type of soil used. It was found that plants grown in rich, loamy soil grew faster than those grown in poor, sandy soil.

In conclusion, the study found that light, water, and soil all have a significant effect on the growth of the plant species. Plants grown in optimal conditions of light, water, and soil grew the fastest.

The study was conducted by a team of researchers from the University of California, Berkeley. The results of the study are presented in the following tables and graphs.

The first table shows the growth rate of the plants under different conditions of light, water, and soil. The growth rate was measured in terms of the height of the plants in centimeters.

The second table shows the growth rate of the plants under different conditions of light, water, and soil. The growth rate was measured in terms of the weight of the plants in grams.

The third table shows the growth rate of the plants under different conditions of light, water, and soil. The growth rate was measured in terms of the number of leaves on the plants.

The fourth table shows the growth rate of the plants under different conditions of light, water, and soil. The growth rate was measured in terms of the number of flowers on the plants.

The fifth table shows the growth rate of the plants under different conditions of light, water, and soil. The growth rate was measured in terms of the number of seeds on the plants.

The sixth table shows the growth rate of the plants under different conditions of light, water, and soil. The growth rate was measured in terms of the number of roots on the plants.

The seventh table shows the growth rate of the plants under different conditions of light, water, and soil. The growth rate was measured in terms of the number of stems on the plants.

The eighth table shows the growth rate of the plants under different conditions of light, water, and soil. The growth rate was measured in terms of the number of branches on the plants.

The ninth table shows the growth rate of the plants under different conditions of light, water, and soil. The growth rate was measured in terms of the number of fruits on the plants.

The tenth table shows the growth rate of the plants under different conditions of light, water, and soil. The growth rate was measured in terms of the number of seeds on the plants.

The eleventh table shows the growth rate of the plants under different conditions of light, water, and soil. The growth rate was measured in terms of the number of roots on the plants.

The twelfth table shows the growth rate of the plants under different conditions of light, water, and soil. The growth rate was measured in terms of the number of stems on the plants.

The thirteenth table shows the growth rate of the plants under different conditions of light, water, and soil. The growth rate was measured in terms of the number of branches on the plants.

JOSEPH MARTIN RECORDS

This Joseph Martin is believed to be a brother to Samuel Martin who died near Versailles, Kentucky. Joseph and Samuel are listed in General Logan's Company in early Kentucky by Collins. This Joseph is the father of Lucy C. Martin who married Samuel Scoggan Sept. 8, 1825. She signed a mortgage as "Lucy C. Scoggan."

In 1935 I was shown a picture of two Martin girls-daughters of Benjamin Martin. Their address given on the back of the picture was Darlington, Wis.

I wrote the auditor at Darlington for names of the descendants of Benjamin Martin. The auditor gave my letter to Glenn W. Martin who wrote me and sent records. He tore pages containing records from an old diary of George S. Martin. It seems that at the time it was written his grandmother was 85 and thus he must have been 15. He perhaps copied the records from a Bible. He records :

"Joseph Martin the father of the family of John Martin and the rest of the family by Elisabeth Martin was Boarn Oct. 18th 1766.

Elisabeth Martin was Boarn March 22 1774 his wife 85 years old.

 (If Elias & Benjamin were bros., one of these dates is incorrect.) (1803 correct)

Lucy Martin was boarn July 27, 1805

George Martin was boarn Nov. 18th 1808

David Martin was boarn June 8, 1813

THE HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

The history of the United States is a story of growth and change. It begins with the first settlers who came to the Americas in search of a new life. These early pioneers faced many hardships, but they persevered and built a new society. Over time, the United States grew from a small colony into a powerful nation. It fought wars, both with and without, and emerged as a global leader. The story of the United States is one of resilience and achievement. It is a story that continues to inspire and inform us today.

The early years of the United States were marked by a sense of adventure and discovery. Explorers like Christopher Columbus and John Cabot opened up new worlds for the Europeans. They discovered vast lands and resources that had been unknown to the rest of the world. This led to a period of rapid expansion and growth. The United States became a melting pot of different cultures and peoples, each contributing to the nation's unique identity.

As the United States grew, it also faced many challenges. There were wars with neighboring countries, internal conflicts, and a struggle for independence. But the United States always emerged stronger and more united. It was a testament to the power of the American spirit. The United States became a model for other nations, showing that a new world was possible.

The United States has come a long way since its founding. It has become a global superpower, with a strong economy and a large military. It has also made significant progress in many areas, including science, technology, and the arts. The United States is a country of many firsts, and it continues to lead the world in many ways.

The history of the United States is a story of hope and possibility. It is a story that reminds us of the power of the human spirit. It is a story that shows us that a better world is possible. The United States is a country that has the potential to make a difference in the world. It is a country that we can all be proud of.
